To Whom It May Concern,

This note is being written in regards to the care provided at Jenn's Little Bears Early Childhood Education Centre. My son has been attending this daycare since he was one. At that time the daycare was under different ownership, however, many of the staff have remained. I have always been at great ease dropping my son off each day to the staff. I don't even really consider them staff, they are an extension of our family. I am always confident to know that my son is receiving great care and learning through the many preschool activities that are provided, however, at this age they are still young and I know that if my son should fall and hurt himself or just be having an off day, there will be somebody there to give him a hug and help him to feel better. Jenn and her staff are always available any time there is a question or concern and always communicate any issues or just how my son's day has been. If only there were an afterschool program, I would not have either one of my kids leave this group centre!!!!!!
