Jenn's Little Bears Early Childhood Center Testimonial

As a parent, one of the hardest things we do is look for quality daycare for our child(ren). It is a task that no parent wants to do but has to do. The thought of entrusting our child's safety to another individual is very stressful. As we search for quality care we look for a place that will keep our child safe, both physically and emotionally, and by an individual(s) who shows they care about child(ren). (Look no further, you have found this at Jenn's Little Bears)

Over the past 9 years our three children have attended daycare. During those 9 years our family has gotten to know the difference between a daycare and a phenomenal daycare. It is our opinion that Jenn's Little Bears is a phenomenal daycare. Of the four daycares our children have attended, Jenn's Little Bears is unquestionably the best group daycare they have been to.

Our children have flourished under the leadership of Jennifer Paine and the incredible teaching staff. The talented staff continuously demonstrate how much they care for all the students at the center. From a parent perspective we love Jenn's Little Bears teachers because they teach our children important life skills that will carry them through their lifetime. They are taught to be independent, socially and environmentally responsible, and respectful. Our son, at the age of 2.5 years, was able to fully dress himself, including putting on his hoodie, and running shoes! I love hearing him say, "I can do it by myself!" and seeing how proud he is for being able to dress himself.

From my children's perspective they feel safe, loved and secure at the center. This is because of the structure that is provided and all the fun activities they participate in. One of our son's favourite activities is the Sportball program. Also, each of our children has formed long lasting friendships at Jenn's Little Bears and has carried those friendships through to elementary school.

As a working parent it is so hard to ensure our children are learning to be good little people. We try and teach them how to behave properly, to use their manners and to respect individuals, but it is not easy while you are working. Therefore, when you find a daycare that unconditionally loves each child and is willing to go the extra mile to help teach them important life skills, it is a wonderful feeling.

Jenn's Little Bears is truly an amazing daycare. Our family has been incredibly fortunate to belong to such an amazing center; and to have such a talented group of individuals teaching, guiding and caring for our children.

Sincerely,

Kim and Bruce Campbell
